

06:05

a lifetime's playlist

CDs are considered outdated and impractical, I used to buy them when I was a young child and I have kept buying physical albums from time to time.

“06:05, a lifetime's playlist” is both a compilation and archive of my personal memories and songs from those specific moments. This CD + book + site is an extension of my personality and multi-cultural heritage.

Through this collection I hope that the songs will also spark memories and make the users recall their childhood / youth.
